

A wide-angle photograph of the Cleveland skyline, featuring the prominent Terminal Tower and several other skyscrapers. In the foreground, a lush green park with a winding path and young trees is visible, situated next to a body of water. The sky is blue with scattered white clouds.

A Special Thank You to all the
Coats 4 Children Community Partners

No one person, nor one company can solve the economic challenges families face every day, but we can collectively, child by child meet the needs of our youngest vulnerable citizens who in return offer to us the opportunity to each say “yes, we will become the bridge for wellbeing. We will community partner with others to make the goal more attainable.” There is power in our yes as a community.
